

I am glad that Sinclair will continue to air this documentary, even though it is being shortened. FCC regulations should not interfere with the release of this documentary, as they didn't interfere with the release of "Fahrenheit 9/11."

This is a free country with free speech, and people cannot exercise their rights of free speech half of the time, and then try to halt others' rights the other half.